A MEMORIAL FROM CUBAN PRISONERS.

A translation of a document has been forwarded to the Department of State by one of the United States consular officers in Cuba. The persons whose names are appended to the paper were among those who were afterward shot at Jiguan. The petition was addressed to the Consuls of England, France, Russia, and the United States, commences thus:

—"The first wash-tub race of Harvard College athletics took place Saturday on the Charles River course. The entries were follows:—W. E. Byerly, "Flound'r," color, pink; T. E. Reed, "The Fisherman," color, yellow; Warren "Duke," color, green; G. F. Stowell, "Co-operative Laundry," color, white; R. E. Eisner, "This Side Up with Care," color, magenta; T. G. Gleason, "Sink or Swim," color, white and blue; H. N. Winslow, "The color, black"; M. C. Converse, "The Cola," color, red; O. C. Parker, "The Bluebird," color, blue.

—The race was won by Parker, who, it is said, was the best swimmer in the University.

—The Freshies Islanders are desirous of annexation to the United States, and it is stated, have made a formal proposal to that effect. It remains to be seen whether the United desirous of annexation with the Freshies Islanders. Applications of this kind are not uncommon in the employment of Mr. William C. Brewster, of Cambridgeport, who has no intentions upon us which a due regard for the fashions of the day will not permit us to gratify. The introduction of the cannibalistic element into our body politic does not strike us favorably at first sight; but we are not so much moved by the moral and mercantile, why it does not; but what we most fear would begin influence of the Freshies female mind and example upon the women of this country. The tendency of the sea to mingle foreign styles might be fatal to prevailing fashions, and utterly disarrange those established in this country which now live in the extraneous of ladies' dress.

—"The Salmon Tunnel.

From the Boston Transcript, Oct. 11.

—The following letter was sent to the Consul of the United States, at Liverpool, by a person in citizen's dress, who, as he said, was an abolitionist, this day verbally directed us to prepare to go as prisoners to Manzanillo, in accordance with previous orders. This announcement surprised us because, according to the circular of General Caballero de Rodas, no one can be arrested on mere suspicion, and in case of their being sufficient cause, the arrest shall be made after due verbal process by placing the presumptive offenders at the disposal of the Captain-General—that is, in cases of political offense.

—Several of us were put upon trial some days since on the supposition that we were guilty of the crime of high treason, and due proceedings having been instituted, the Government attorney was of the opinion that they ought to be quashed, with which the Associate Judge, who in Spanish courts is the responsible one, agreed; therewith the Governor-General of that department, although compelled, held all of the accused thereby showing an inconsistency which can be justified by the keenest reason in the case of political offenses.

—Others were yesterday morning placed in solitary confinement, without any reason for their arrest being assigned, grounds stated for the order of their departure, and even without due process of law, which requires such a thing to be done by the attorney of the government, and not by a person in citizen's dress. The person delivering the message presented it as a polite and delicate mark of attention on the part of the Governor.

—After a further statement of the case, they say to the Regent, through the consuls:—

—Sir!—We are dragged from our homes, we are led to prison; we are most unmercifully exposed to the perils of a journey in consequence of all law, without regard to the effect produced by these measures on the public opinion; with only regard to the grews, the tears, the sorrows of distinguished families, and of the people at large. Deign to grant us justice, as the illustrious savior of Alcalá would grant it; he would not expose us to the perils of a journey, nor would he be deaf to our prayers. He is a generous and great son of the people, and the representative of a democratic nation, and would severely punish the upholders of such despotism, which is a cancer-worm to the Spanish influence in this island of Cuba. What we do fear is, to speak frankly and plainly, that we shall perish on the road, either by the bullets of the soldiers of one or the other party, by the prevailing epidemic, or by the deep, horrible, and indescribable horrors and apprehensions which have assailed us since the history of certain needs has been made known to us.

—We therefore appeal to you, worthy representatives of powerful nations.—Visit the Governor of the Republic, and tell him of our fears; use your influence with him; demand of him the security of our lives, or, in case any calamity befall us, report to your Governments what has been done. You will thereby render a service to the cause of civilization, to your own nations and to Spain herself, who cannot suffer such acts to be committed.

—Receive, Messrs. Consuls, the assurance of our highest consideration.

To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph.

The request of the late Dr. Bush is understood to require the Library Company, if they accept the Trust, to publish every ten years for fifty years an edition of 500 copies of the works of the testator. It therefore concerns the members of the company to know what those works are, to wit:—

Hamlet, a Dramatic Prelude, in five acts.

The Philosophy of the Human Voice.

A Brief Outline of an Analysis of the Human Intellect.

Intended to rectify the scholastic and vulgar perversions of the natural purpose and method of thinking, by rejecting altogether the theoretic confusion, the unmeaning arrangement, and indefinite nomenclature of the metaphysician. 2 vols. $12.50.

Rhythmical Education and Poetry. Intended to Exemplify an important Agent in the Working Plan of the Human Intellect. A Narrated Dialogue. Crown Svo. Price $1.25.

There may be others not known to the present writer; but I am informed there are seven in all. The above, it will be seen, will make six volumes, five hundred copies of which are to be published every ten years. Three thousand volumes published five times will amount to fifteen thousand volumes. In these days of "disjoined thinking," when men strangely ignore books which are "clear, pure, and deep, diffusing healthy, truthful, and valuable information" (see Dr. Bush's will), we may set down the demand for these works at, say, five hundred.

The title of the new series is to be "Great Works of the Human Mind."
